

For a proper diagnosis, your doctor may ask you and your spouse a variety of questions to understand what type of symptoms you have and how long they have been occurring. Make sure that you are open and honest with your doctor when answering these questions. Here is a list of the possible questions your doctor may ask:

---

- What medications are you currently taking?
- Have you experienced any stress lately?
- Do you suffer from any other conditions such as heart disease, diabetes, etc?
- Do you currently or have you smoked cigarettes?
- When did you first start noticing symptoms of ED occur?
- How often do you experience symptoms such as lack of sexual desire, can't achieve an erection?
- Do you drink alcohol? If so, how often?
- Are you currently experiencing problems in your relationship?
- Do you wake up with an erection? How about in the evening?
- How consistent is the problem: Is penetration difficult 50%, 75% or 100% of time?
- Do your erections change at different times such as with different partners, oral stimulation, or masturbation?
- Any history of pelvic, genital, or spinal cord trauma?
- Have you been feeling down and depressed a lot?
- What, if anything, seems to improve your symptoms?
- What, if anything, seems to worsen your symptoms?
- Do you take any herbal medications or supplements?
- Do you or have you used illicit drugs?
- Is penile curvature (Peyronie's disease) a problem?